Random ping spikes/connection drops on windows 10... - [Solved]
2019/07/06

I have a windows 10 machine using a wireless USB adapter to connect to the internet latest windows updates and drivers Connection keeps spiking every few seconds non stop, I reinstalled Windows just to see if that would help it didn't I'm experiencing the same issues, what's interesting I tested the same adapter on a Windows 10 virtual machine and did not experience the issue, but when I shared the host connection the issue was there, picture below of ping command would give you an idea of what's going on when I'm downloading something during the spike the download would hit 0MB/s and stay there for a few seconds, and if I'm playing an online game the ping would be 2000 or 9999 and the game just freezes for a few seconds this keeps happening every few seconds so games are unplayable right now. during the connection drop windows doesn't indicate that there are any issues with the connection, the applications just lose connection for seconds. Host OS:
