Internet cuts out the same time every night

2019/08/28

Hi people,I realize there are multiple, older threads about this, but none of them have been able to help me.Every night between 00:30 and 00:40, my internet cuts out. I have checked with the provider, I have reset the router (one-year old TP-LINK Archer 2600C), checked for parental controls (switched off) and looked at the DNS Lease in ipconfig /all (wasn't able to find anything suspicious, though I am an experienced if not advanced user). Provider says it's not on their end and I am inclined to believe them since my neighbour does not have the issue. The router seems to be functioning fine, the wifi works without a hitch (though obviously without internet connection) and the Ethernet connection functions, though again, no connection to the internet.The internet is back every morning.Anyone want to hazard a guess what's up?EDIT: Here is a screenshot of ipconfig /all DHCP Lease Time:
